

LION AND MOUSE

Once upon a time in the depths of the jungle lived a beautiful, powerful lion, fearing nothing and no one. One night he woke up suddenly.

Something was tickling his feet. He opened his eyes and what to see! A little mouse was tangled in between to the fingers of his foot and struggling to escape.

The lion laughed. His laughter echoed throughout jungle.

- "What do you want, my little one? How do you dare and wake your king? roared.

"AA, my brave lion," replied the mice with a shrill, shaky phonole. I' m really sorry. I was going to hide in my nest, but I lost the road, I did not notice in front me and ...

The lion was yawning. His huge teeth flashed in the light of the moon. The heartbeat of the mouse struggled to break out of fear.

The lion opened his mouth and prepared to make a little bite of the little creature.

"Let's end," the lion thought "to sleep a little".

But at the moment, he was ready to eat him, the mouse was weeping.

- My good lion, begged, please, don't eat me! Anyway, I'm too small to full. Let me live, and I promise you I will not forget it. I owe you my life. And one day

I will repay you grace.

The lion laughed more than ever this time. He broke up laughing and making the jungle shaken all over.

- "You are very funny, little, shouted.

I, the King of the animals, what favour can I ask of you:

And how can you help me, the strongest, the most fearless animal? You are totally lame!

The mouse did not know what else to say. Only closed his eyes ready to accept his fortune.

But the lion gave his life at the back. Maybe, because he felt pity for him, maybe because he laughed with his heart, maybe because he wasn't so hungry. Who knows;

The days and weather passed, and one day, when the animal king walked uncomfortably, he fell into the trap of a hunter. Strong nets spread over him and, as he tried, he could not get away.

He fought and fought with all his strength. In vain! His strong screams resounded throughout the jungle.

The mouse heard the lion, ran close to him, and started immediately, with his little teeth, teasing the ropes.

In short, the lion was now free.

--I don't believe it! cried the king of the jungle and everyone listens to it. Finally you were absolutely right, my little mouse. We all need one's help. Still and the smallest of the most humble creatures.

Then he told the mouse to climb to his back, and they turned out minced. Since then the lion and mouse have become the best friends!

Moral

It does not matter how small it is somebody because it can be done for us
the greatest friend of the world!

Aesop and his myths

Aesop was an ancient Greek who made and narrated oral myths.

His myths are known all over the world and through them passes important lessons to young and old.

Cast in Aesop's myths are mainly actors animals, such as fox, wolf, lion,
the hare and many others who are talking and acting as people, while some of his myths are known with protagonists or gods.